FORESTRY COMMISSION AREA FRANKENBERG

The Forestry Commission Area of Frankenberg covers over 19,000 hectares, in the heart of Germany. The hunting ground covers around 15.000 hectares of the forestry area. Offering a substantial level of natural regeneration, the forest is the perfect habitat for red deer, mouflon, wild boar and roe deer.

The main game species for this hunt are wild boar and roe deer, and in recent years our guests have achieved an impressive tableau of game. All aspects of the hunt are meticulously organized and every hunter will be introduced to his or her high seat for the two drives. We hunt with experienced dogs, handlers and beaters who know the area intimately.

Because of its central location, Frankenberg is conveniently situated and easy to get to. Enjoy two days driven hunt in a beautiful landscape with abundant game and experience the very best in German hunting tradition!
