... STATE FORESTRY OFFICE 'ROMROD'

The forestry office of Romrod manages an area of approx. 16,000 hectares and is located in the Vogelsbergkreis of Hesse. The terrain covers a low mountain range with elevations of up to almost 500 m. The scenery is dominated by magnificent hardwood and softwood forests, mainly comprising oak, beech and spruce.

We have been hunting in Romrod for many years and have established a relationship with this operation that is more than purely business. You will hardly find a driven hunt as perfectly prepared and conducted as this one. One drive of approx. three hours is made every day, covering a large area. The prevailing game is wild boar, with one day of hunting being held in the red-deer core area. In the past years, the harvest has always been as highly satisfactory in numbers as in diversity.

The dinner at the end of the first hunting day has become a tradition in its own. We are keeping the number of participating hunters low on purpose. To us, quality comes first, not business. Please call soon if you are interested, there are only few places left.
