SOUTH AFRICA

South Africa starts where the Black Continent ends. The country is considered the cradle of humanity, the oldest fossil findings of our ancestors are estimated at 3.5 to 4 million years old. Thus, the hunting was already millions of years ago in South Africa at home.

In early history, the tribes of the San settled in what is now South Africa. To this day, they live and hunt in this area and have preserved much of their original way of life. In 1488, the Portuguese navigator Bartolomeu Diaz reached the southern tip of Africa, which later resulted in colonization. The Dutch East India Company founded 1652 Cape Town with the first settlement on the Cape and this quickly developed into a colony. In 1806 this was taken in possession by the British. Dutch „Boers“ emigrating to the north then founded various Boer republics. The Anglo-Boer hostility finally led to two wars which ended with the incorporation of the Boer republics in the British Empire.

After World War II, South Africa's most famous period, Apartheid, began. From its fight emerged one of the most important personalities of Africa, the Nobel Peace Prize winner Nelson Mandela.

USEFUL INFORMATION

The historic South Africa has about fifty million inhabitants and a size of 1.2 million km². Its capital Pretoria reflects the upswing of the now proud economic power, after the sad chapter of apartheid. A world in one country - South Africa is an ethnically very mixed country where people of all colors live and is often referred to as a rainbow nation because of its diversity. Memorable places and attractions such as the legendary Cape of Good Hope, the Kalahari, known for its gigantic pictures of wandering herds of wildebeest, the famous Kruger National Park or the metropolis Cape Town with the Table Mountain are always worth a visit.

South Africa spoils the visitor with a moderate subtropical climate, only in the southwest is the Mediterranean climate. In winter is rainy season. The average temperatures in summer are 21 ° C, in winter 15 ° C. From a hunting point of view, South Africa offers unlimited opportunities for experienced hunters as well as newcomers. South Africa is the prime example of sustainable game and wildlife protection. The majority of private game reserves are fenced, otherwise the protection of wildlife could not be guaranteed. South Africa plays a leading role worldwide, especially in the protection of white and black rhinos.

No other country on the Black Continent has the opportunity to hunt such a variety of different species. Whether the high mountains of the Hochveld, the vastness of the dry savanna or the never-ending deserts, the country presents itself to the hunter in rugged beauty with diverse flora and fauna, which is unparalleled in Africa.

Hunting is mostly on hunting farms with dimensions and widths that are unimaginable for our local hunting grounds. The philosophy of K & K Premium Jagd is to offer only hunting areas of several thousand hectares and more in South Africa because we want to ensure that natural resources in semi-natural habitats are hunted sustainably and gently.

STRONG BUFFALOS AT LIMPOPO

WORTH KNOWING ABOUT THE HUNTING AREA

The Cape Buffalo is one of the most coveted big game trophies in Southern Africa, and that's exactly what our partner Buffalo Legends specializes in. For years, some of South Africa's strongest buffaloes have been shot here. Numerous well-known big game hunters have already hunted here and were infected by the buffalo fever. Tall grown bulls can reach a shoulder height of 1.70 meters, a length of 3.4 meters and a weight of 1,000 kg. The aim of the local buffalo safaris is to harvest an old, mature buffalo bull with a pronounced boss, long, deeply curved horns and a spread of 40 inches and more. Depending on the season, the hunter must either shoot the bull out of a smaller or larger herd - or track the bull as a loner in small bachelor groups (so-called Daggaboys) and the shoot. As a rule, you will hunt alone in our hunting area to ensure the high quality of the hunts. If you have shot your buffalo, the hunting area also offers excellent hunts on Plainsgame like strong Sable, Kudu, Impala, Waterbuck and Warthog, just to name a few. But also bird hunts like guinea fowl, Francoline and pigeon shootings can be organized on request with great success.

During your stay in the hunting area, you will be accommodated in a luxurious tented camp. The tent camp radiates tranquility and originality, qualities that all Africans dream of. In particular, the culinary tastings will inspire you. High quality ingredients are processed by the chefs and served with fine South African wines. If you want to relax for a few days after the safari, you should visit Sun City, which is just 140 kilometers from the hunting area.

RIFLE AND CALIBER

The recommended calibres for buffalo hunting are the .375 H & H, .375 Flanged, .450 / 400, .416 Rigby, .404 Jeffery, .458 Lott, .470 and .500 Nitro Express. It is important for the antelope hunt to choose a weapon that you trust and that you know well. If this is a .30-06, this caliber will be sufficient under normal circumstances and can be used without hesitation and with the necessary care. With heavy fillings the .30-06 is sufficient for all antelopes. For Eland, Kudu and Oryx, ie very heavy and massive game, we recommend to use a stronger caliber, which ensures the necessary penetrating power. Keep in mind that large eland bulls can outperform a buffalo in mass. The 8X68S, 8x75 RS, .338 Win. Mag., 9.3x64 and .375 H & H Magnum and similar calibers are proven and suitable. Of course you have to compromise on the choice of caliber, if you want to hunt different game species. It should be noted that it is extremely important to use hard bullets such as TUG, X Barnes, A-Frame or Woodleighs and so on.

The weapon for a hunt in Africa should be robust and insensitive. The rifle is exposed in the SUV vibrations, shocks and blows. When stalking through the bush, scratches are often difficult to avoid. It should also be borne in mind that sand and dust can penetrate almost any system and cause malfunctions. Please note when importing weapons to South Africa that persons under the age of 21 are not allowed to import weapons! We are happy to assist you with the weapons import permit. There are also rental weapons available at the lodge.

LIMPOPO PROVINCE

The province Limpopo belonged until 1994 to the province Transvaal and lies in the extreme northeast of South Africa. The province is bordered by neighboring states Botswana, Zimbabwe and Mozambique. In the east of the province lies the northern Kruger National Park, to the west rises the fascinating Waterberg and to the far north is the World Heritage Site Mapungubwe. The Kruger is the largest and probably the most well-known national park of South Africa. The park has all the wildlife of Southern Africa.

Mapungubwe (meaning jackal's mountain) is one of the richest archaeological sites in Africa, located on the banks of the Limpopo River in the new Mapungubwe National Park. Researchers believe that this is the first capital of the former kingdom of Great Zimbabwe. The eponymous Limpopo River marks the border with Zimbabwe. Limpopo is relatively sparsely populated. On a surface of approximately 120.000 square kilometers (one third of the surface of Germany) live well over 5 million inhabitants. The climate is subtropical, summers are hot and humid, winters mild. The province is rich in mineral resources and mainly produces platinum and copper in the Phalaborwa region. The agricultural use of the province focuses on extensive livestock farming (cattle). From the relatively humid Letaba district come tropical fruits, especially mangos, litchis, avocados, bananas and papayas. You will also find here extensive tea plantations.

Limpopo is „prime game country“. Not only does the entire northern part of the Kruger National Park belong to the province. Also in the Waterberg region there are several excellent game reserves with the „Big 5“. This region is also malaria free and is therefore preferred by many visitors.
